

Hold Harmless Agreement

This is our agreement with each other.

Dr. Austina De Bonte, Ed.D. (she/her) is not a medical doctor, counselor, or therapist, holds no licenses, and can't provide a diagnosis for anything. Dr. De Bonte has a doctoral degree in gifted and twice exceptional education, with a specialization in educational leadership. She is also a fellow parent and an avid researcher, and has a network of professionals locally and nationwide that she works with to get advice from. Dr. De Bonte can share detailed information about various conditions, resources, and professionals you might consider exploring; this information is provided for your information only and is not to be used for diagnostic or treatment purposes.

Dr. De Bonte can help you identify certain professionals or types of professionals you may wish to consult with, as well as schools, summer programs, organizations, resources, or other educational environments that you may wish to consider. Dr. De Bonte has no control over these professionals, organizations, programs, their staff, or their past or future performance, and provides no warranty about their quality or applicability to your situation. You, the client, must do your own research before pursuing any of these options.

Dr. De Bonte is happy to share what she has learned, and many families have found her suggestions helpful. However, she does not claim to know everything, and can't guarantee that any of her suggestions will be helpful for your family, since every situation is so individual.

You are welcome to send student work samples as well as any communications, test results, or other reports you've received from schools, professionals, or other sources. You provide these at your own risk. Dr. De Bonte does not share the files you provide with anyone, and stores all files, notes, and this signed agreement in email, in a computer folder, and/or in a locked filing cabinet.

Ultimately, you, the client, are solely responsible for any actions that you take following our discussion(s). The client agrees to hold Dr. Austina De Bonte and Smart is not Easy, LLC harmless from any and all claims, lawsuits, demands, causes of action, liability, loss, damage and/or injury, of any kind whatsoever arising in any way whatsoever from any of our interactions, whether oral, written, or electronic.
